President Confers At Capitol With Legislative Leaders and Progress Is Made

PROMPT ACTION EXPECTED

Chief Garrettson, of Conductors, Declares
8 Hour Law Will Stop
Trouble

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Administration officials made the confident prediction this afternoon that the general railroad strike will be prevented by legislation. This statement came following a very lengthy conference at the capitol between President Wilson and legislative leaders and while a general hearing on the presidential legislative program was in progress before the senate interstate commerce committee.

It was admitted that the situation still was extremely acute and that a tie-up in getting the legislation through might nullify all efforts. But when the president left the capitol after being there an hour and forty minutes he admitted that "progress toward a settlement" was being made.

"All that I care to say is that I came up here to find out what congress was doing," said the president, "and I find that it is making progress."

Despite general opposition from the railroads it seems certain that a strong effort is to be made to pass a bill providing for an eight hour day in railroad operation. To expedite its enactment it is to be attached to the Adamson bill, which already has passed the house, adding two members to the interstate commerce commission. And, in order to nullify the opposition from the progressive senators who have alleged that the president was attempting to "pack" the commission, the original bill will be amended if possible, certain administration leaders say, so that the two members shall be recommended, one by the railway brotherhoods and the other by the railway executives. This latter amendment, it is expected, will be passed by the house under a special rule tomorrow.

After the president returned to the White House it was stated that it had been agreed that attention would be concentrated on the amended bill increasing the interstate commerce commission. It was stated that the president and Secretary Lane would seek a way to incorporate in the increase measure the eight hour plan, the plan for the commission to investigate the workings of such a plan and the military necessity plan which would permit the president to take over railroads and draft men to operate trains if needed for military purposes only. It was said that the house would pass such an omnibus bill tomorrow.

In order to get a postponement of the strike order should there be difficulty encountered in the senate whose rules prevent cloture methods, it is the intention of the president and democratic leaders to pledge passage of the eight hour law and insist that the strike be called off. So far the brotherhood chiefs have refused to say whether they will do this.

An hour before the president left the White House for the capitol President Garrettson of the Order of Railway Conductors had told the senate interstate commerce committee that he would accept such a law as sufficient to warrant his ordering the strike called off.

Such a law would be a "satisfactory settlement," Garrettson declared, and, despite the opposition of the railway presidents the general belief was expressed in official circles that congress will jam it through between now and Saturday night.

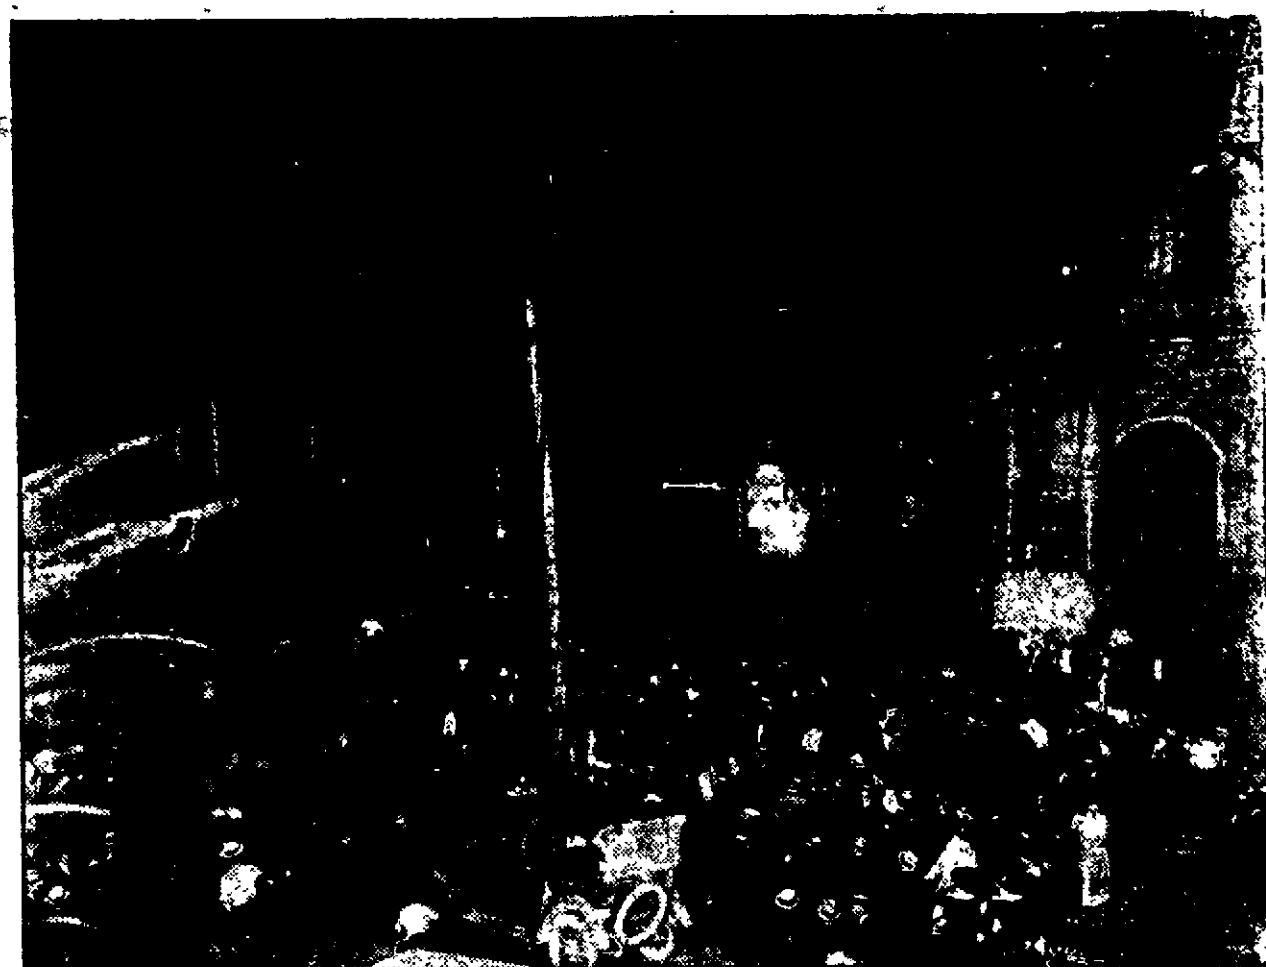

APPEALS TO BROTHERHOODS.
Senator Newlands Urge That Strike Be Postponed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—A direct request that the "big four" brotherhoods postpone the date for the commencement of their general strike scheduled for next Monday morning, was made by Senator Newlands, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee today. When the public hearings on the proposed legislation opened, Senator Newlands, in a brief speech, called attention to the great importance of the legislation under consideration.

DANIELS AT NAPOLEON.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Charles Daniels, negro, sought last night by the mob at Lima, was found in jail at Napoleon this afternoon.

All saloons will close at six o'clock this evening, by order of Police Chief Rolla H. McKinney. Police will enforce this mandate.

Battered and bruised, with internal injuries probable and the fracture of two ribs possible, Sheriff Sherman E. Eley is recovering in Ottawa, from the injuries received during the riot of last night, his whereabouts being known only to a few trusted friends, his family, and the physician in charge.

Little Doris Eley, aged three years, is in a critical condition at the Lima City hospital, her recovery from a sickness of months retarded by the fright and excitement of the past 24 hours. With her is her mother, Mrs. Eley, bearing up bravely, but suffering from the shock to her nervous system. Miss Cecil Kephart, her sister, struck by the invaders, is under constant watch, her pain being almost unbearable.

The residence portion of the county jail, tracked with mud and stained with tobacco juice, the furniture battered and scratched and the family rooms littered with the wearing apparel and other things tossed about the house by ransackers intent apparently on pilfering as well as on finding the sheriff, who was obeying his oath and protecting his prisoner in accordance with duty, is another testimonial to the work of the first mob Lima has witnessed in years.

Charles Daniels, the negro identified by Mrs. John Baber as the one who assaulted her at her home west of Lima, yesterday morning, is in Toledo, his escape from Ottawa being effected by a margin of 15 minutes before the vanguard of the Lima mob reached the Putnam county jail. Mrs. Baber is slowly recovering at the City hospital.

Such, in brief, is the aspect after a night of excitement unparalleled in recent years in Lima, but the quieter and more effective forces of law and order are moving rapidly toward a great criminal prosecution which threatens dire results to the ringleaders in last night's rioting.

As an outcome of the entire episode, Prosecuting Attorney Ortho O. Barr looms up as the man who saved the life of Sheriff Eley and managed the escape of the negro, Daniels, from Lima and later from Ottawa.

Swift retribution is promised by Barr. During the entire course of the demonstration before the jail, and before the sheriff returned to Lima, the prosecutor was identifying various leaders, collecting data, taking auto tag numbers and securing positive evidence of a nature strong enough to bring penitentiary sentences to a dozen men. With the aid of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Harry O'Connor, all material for the grand jury has been collected without delay and transmitted to another city for safe keeping.

To Barr, more than to any other man, Sheriff Eley owes his life. With a noose around his neck and hundreds of men crowding him toward a convenient pole at the Harper block corner, the big sheriff refused to reveal the whereabouts of Daniels, until Barr advised him to do so. No sooner had the truth become known and the mob started toward Ottawa than the word was flashed to that city to remove the negro to Toledo. Arrangements were made with the Ottawa police and the Putnam county authorities to protect Eley in case he should be conveyed to that city, and Governor Willis was apprised of the need of holding state troops at Camp Perry for immediate use in case of need.

Spontaneous and almost totally unexpected was the mob action of last night. The news of the assault of Mrs. Baber, strangely enough, was not generally known about Lima until noon, although the central portions of the city were discussing the crime. Reports that she had died

CRAZED MAN LEAPS FROM R. R. TRAIN

MOUNT VERNON, O., Aug. 31.—

While he was being brought by a brother from Cleveland to Fredericktown, Ben Foote, 27, early today leaped through B. & O. passenger coach window between Butler and Belleville while the train was running 35 miles an hour. Foote may die of his injuries. He had been in a hospital in Cleveland and is thought to have suddenly become deranged.

RUN DOWN BY TRACTION CAR.

STUEBENVILLE, O., Aug. 31.—

John Leonard, 28, Wheeling, is dying in a hospital here today from injuries sustained when run down by an interurban car on the Steubenville-East Liverpool line. Leonard was struck at midnight and one leg mangled but he was not found until this morning when passing workmen heard his cries.

BORDER TROOPS TO LEAVE FOR HOME; 83,000 TO REMAIN

In Case of Strike Government Will Run Supply Trains.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 31.—Military bases on the border are humming with fresh activity today owing to the orders issued at Washington for the return to their home stations of militia forces of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Illinois, Missouri, California, Oregon, Washington and Louisiana. The return in anticipation of a railway strike, of about 15,000 men from these nine states will still leave approximately 83,000 militia on the border, but it is expected that the government will be able to keep enough trains running to supply them.

That the withdrawal of the Pershing expedition from Mexico will be hastened if the strike goes into effect on Monday is the prevailing opinion among army officers stationed here. Although reserve rations for at least 30 days are on hand at the expedition camps from Palomas to El Valle, the fodder for the cavalry horses will fall short if the supply is cut off from the provision base at Columbus, N. M.

Grain is carried daily from that point by motor trucks to the troops in the field. It is also carried south by rail from Juarez, but a railroad tie-up would necessarily limit the supply.

Militia and regulars on the border will not be permitted to suffer through a cessation of traffic the army authorities can prevent it. Two hundred of the militiamen in the Pennsylvania division here are experienced railroaders and have been ordered in readiness to operate trains if called upon.

Not only food but also ice and fuel for the camp kitchens of the border troops have to be carried by train. These probably will be operated by the guardsmen in case of a strike.

Food to feed the 40,000 troops in the El Paso district is ready stored in the quartermaster depots here. This probably will be more than sufficient, but trains must be utilized to carry it to the various camps.

The effect of a strike would be severe in northern Mexico. Communities there are solely dependent on food supplies from El Paso through Juarez for existence and if shipments are cut off thousands of Mexicans will starve.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., Aug. 31.—

Levi Mahew, 37, B. & O. brakeman, was killed here today when he fell under his train. The body will be sent to Parkersburg.

Henry Kelly, 19, of Clarkburg, W. Va., died at Nell's Ohio, today of injuries sustained in the Pittsburgh-Belmont mine. He was crushed against the wall by a passing car.

RUMANIANS IN DRIVE ADVANCE INTO HUNGARY

British Are Using Gas With 'Good' Results on Foe at Front.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Shifting their attacks to Lorraine the Germans penetrated French trenches in the sector of Parroy, but were immediately ejected by means of a counter attack, the French war office announced in its official communique today.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—British troops used gas on the Armentieres-Arras front against the Germans last night with good results, the war office announced today. The official report also states that Bavarian soldiers and officers surrendered to the British in the vicinity of Martinpuich without attempting escape.

The official statement follows: "In the operations southwards of Martinpuich reported last night two officers and 124 men surrendered. They belonged to a Bavarian regiment. Their willingness to surrender instead of attempting to return to their own lines is interesting."

"We discharged gas on a broad front near Arras and Armentieres with good results."

"The enemy shelled Bethune last night, which led to heavy retaliation by our guns."

RUMANIANS DRIVE AUSTRIANS

Advance 30 Miles Into Hungarian Territory—Greece in Tumult.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Rumanian troops have advanced thirty miles into Hungarian territory, driving the Austro-Hungarians before them in wild flight. Dispatches from Bucharest say that the Austro-Hungarians, in their retreat abandoned mountain passes, villages and mountain fortresses to the victorious troops of King Ferdinand. Six important passes in the Transylvanian Alps are in the hands of the Rumanians and Russians, some of which were taken without a struggle.

An engagement developed when the Austro-Hungarians tried to defend Ojtoz Pass, but the Rumanians carried it by storm and are advancing on Kezdi-Vasarhely, an important railway town.

The Rumanians have taken more than 1000 prisoners so far in their drive. The greatest advance was made by the Rumanian forces that carried Tomoz Pass and swept onward to the Gyorgy mountains, northeast of Kronstadt.

It is believed here from the latest official report of the Rumanian war office that the two important Hungarian cities of Kronstadt and Hermannstadt are in the hands of the Rumanians.

The Austro-Hungarian generals are trying to reform the Transylvanian army and from rear guard tactics an engagement of major dimensions is developing.

GERMANY CLAIMS SINKING OF OWEGO AS A JUSTIFIED ACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—In a sharp rejoinder to the American demand for an explanation of the firing on the American steamer Owego by a German submarine off the Isle of Wight on August 3, Germany has absolved herself from any blame for the incident. It also declares that the action of the submarine commander in firing on the Owego was entirely proper.

The German government declares that the captain of the Owego did not act in accordance with international law and would have had only himself to blame if his vessel had been sunk. It absolves the captain of the submarine from all blame.

The report from Ambassador Gerard, as made public by the state department today, was as follows:

"The foreign office in a note dated August 26, which was received today, replies as follows with regard to American steamer Owego:

"As established by the admiralty staff of the imperial navy a German submarine at 2:40 on afternoon August 3, with very fair weather and smooth sea, sighted a slow going steamer of an old type and stood by. At a distance of six thousand metres the submarine made the steamer a signal to stop and fired two warning shots. As nothing happened on the steamer, whose flag was not recognizable, but which nevertheless continued to proceed on its way, there further warning shots were fired. As the steamer neither made an understood signal nor stood by, fire was opened on it. After six shots, eleven in all, it hoisted American flag, on the foremast and stopped. The distance was 2,000 metres. The submarine signalled to send immediately a boat with his papers, to which the captain of the steamer answered by hoisting his destination signal but did nothing more. When, after a further seven minute wait, no preparation was made to launch a boat the commander of the submarine fired a shot across the steamer's bows. After ten minutes the first officer came on board the submarine and stated that the captain had not observed the submarine until then. The imperial government cannot give any credence to this evasive excuse since the note of August 18 mentioned ten shots fired at the steamer from which it is undeniably clear that the warning shots were heard by the captain of the Owego, but that no attention was paid to them."

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH.

MARYSVILLE, O., Aug. 31.—

Alice McKittrick, two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kellon McKittrick of Jerome township, was scalded to death today when she fell into a bucket of boiling water the mother had placed on the porch to pick a chicken.

FAVORS SALE OF ISLANDS.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Aug. 31.—

The legislature of Santa Cruz has adopted and cabled to the Danish government at Copenhagen a resolution favoring sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States. The colonial council of St. Thomas and St. John, the two other islands of the Danish West Indies, already has taken similar action.

agreed by only a few. Then it was that the mob became dangerous. Through the back way he escaped, seeking to conceal himself in the Elks' home.

A mysterious tip that Elly was hiding in the Elks club sent a hundred running to the lodge home, through the front door and tracking into the foyer. Behind a door the sheriff was grabbed, pushed out to the street and surrounded by a thousand yelling men who threatened physical violence unless the whereabouts of the negro were revealed at once.

Elly firmly refused to tell where Daniels could be found, reiterating his declaration made in the Elks home. An interurban car pulled in from North Main street and stopped because of the great crowd on the tracks. "There's a rope!" yelled a member of the mob, and a dozen boys and men swarmed up to the top of the car to cut off the trolley rope. This they tossed down to the crowd below, and three or four men made a noise and slipped it over Elly's head, crowding him to a pole. The few who had slipped out toward the state hospital had returned by this time, and the crowd numbered between four and five thousand. Police were unable to contend with the crowd. Fire Chief John Mack appeared with the fire truck, forcing a path through the mob, but the crowd anticipating a drenching and alashed a rear tire in a few moments.

By this time Elly was well nigh exhausted by the rough treatment of the crowd, and was about ready to collapse. Prosecutor Barr worked his way to the center of the crowd and advised the sheriff to reveal the hiding place of Daniels. Then, and not until then, did Elly show the first symptom of surrender. Barr then called the sheriff at Ottawa and ordered the negro removed.

A truck stolen from the White Mountain creamery garage rounded the corner and stopped alongside the sheriff. Twenty or thirty men clamored aboard, lifting the mob almost unconscious Elly to the truck platform. "On to Ottawa!" yelled the mob, and the truck started for West street to lead the parade to the Putnam county jail.

Meanwhile friends of Elly had been at work. Mayor Simpson, Chief McKinney, James I. Heffner, Probation Officer George Barrett and a score of others started out to beat the kidnappers to Ottawa. Near the state hospital, however, the sheriff was removed by friends from the truck which started to return, but the long procession to Ottawa, headed by the machine in which Elly was being carried, continued through clouds of dust. Near Cairo the car ran out of gasoline, and the next one, commandeered by Chief McKinney, continued the race. It was evident that the crowd was intent on wreaking vengeance on Elly unless the negro could be found at the Ottawa jail. Each car was loaded to the capacity, many hanging on the running boards for the entire trip.

Eight patrolmen in the police van were well up in the procession. The plan of action, it was then apparent, was to change the scene of action to the smaller city, where there would be less of a crowd against the sheriff and more opportunity to deputize citizens as special aids in keeping order. In Ottawa, too, there would be no hostility from citizens.

Arrived at the destination, McKinney escorted Elly to the Hotel Dumont, where he was taken to a room. The crowd ran to the jail, only to find that the negro, Daniels, was well on his way to Toledo under escort of Deputy Sheriff Miller of Putnam county. Again the animosity returned to Elly, but the chance of hurting him was much less, as the crowd was by no means as large as in Lima. Elly was given medical attention by an Ottawa physician, while the crowd loitered about the hotel door, waiting for Elly to attempt escape.

By switching the sheriff to the next room, thence down the back stairs to the alley, McKinney managed to elude the crowd. Elly was in no shape to take care of himself. While the escape was being made at the rear, "Put" Sandles, editor and recent gubernatorial candidate, spoke from the hotel steps, urging the crowd to go home, as the negro was not in Ottawa and Elly was not in shape to survive rough treatment. With the aid of a motor car offered by an Ottawa business man, the sheriff slipped out of the town and went to a farm house some distance from the city lines.

Prosecutor Barr this morning located Elly and informed him of the condition in Lima, advising him to rest until his wounds had proved slight or were completely healed. Last night it seemed that the sheriff was injured internally, and was in danger of bleeding to death inwardly, but this belief was found to be erroneous.

Prosecutions under the most drastic charge will be pressed at once. The grand jury meets September 3, next Tuesday, and Prosecutor Barr will be ready at that time to submit his evidence. Inciting to riot carries a penalty of $5,000 fine and imprisonment, but threatening the life of an official in the performance of duty may be the charge preferred. All who were at all implicated in the attempted lynching, including those whose connection was merely that of yelling encouragement to the ones with the rope, are equally guilty before the law and if convicted will be counted as accomplices.

Elly Back Today.
Sheriff Elly was brought to Lima this afternoon and taken directly to the city hospital, where his wife and daughter Doris spent the night. The latter is somewhat improved, but the shock has been severe to Mrs. Elly and to her sister, Miss Kophart. The condition of Mrs. Baber is slightly improved, and her wounds are not now thought to be dangerous.

One Under Arrest.
Edward Yost, about 20 years of age, is under arrest at Ottawa. He is charged with carrying concealed weapons. He was in the crowd about the Ottawa county jail last night and was uttering threats of violence to Elly in case he should be located.

Railway Strike May Be Averted By the House and Senate

domestic civil war," said Newlands, "and it would be impossible to estimate the terrible consequences of it."
"I trust that before this hearing is concluded the heads of the brotherhoods will recognize that congress has entered, with serious and continuous purpose, into an effort to secure a remedy that will be fair to all and will, by a postponement of the strike, enable congress to act with the care, deliberation and temperance which the enormous importance of this grave problem demands."
"None of the legislation that we have under consideration calls for compulsory arbitration. That should be recognized at once. But we have been forced to act with a haste that is most regrettable because it has precluded deliberation that is essential to such important legislation. Congress wants to be fair, but it realizes just what a strike of this character would mean to the great mass of our people."

The first speaker was A. B. Garretson, chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, and in an impassioned argument he accused the railroads of being unwilling to concede anything to the men. He declared that the men in accepting President Wilson's offer of the eight-hour day had made concessions that were very great. They had sacrificed their demand for overtime and for everything but the shorter workday, he said, and at no time have they found the companies responsive to their desires to secure peace.

The railroads were represented at the hearings by F. B. Underwood, of the Erie; Daniel Willard, Baltimore and Ohio; W. A. Attabury, Pennsylvania; Henry Walters, Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville and Nashville; Howard Elliot, New Haven, Samuel Rea, Pennsylvania; R. S. Lovett, Union Pacific; Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the railway presidents and the committee of managers; Ellisha Lee, of the committee of managers and Charles P. Neill, formerly United States commissioner of mediation.

The brotherhoods were represented by A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. S. Stone, B. of L. E. W. S. Carter, president B. of L. E. F. and E.; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

There was an utter absence of any resentment between the two parties as they gathered in the big committee room. The railway presidents and brotherhood chiefs shook hands warmly, but by common consent avoided the issue which had brought them together. It was announced that all of the labor chiefs would talk while the arguments for the roads would be presented by General Counsel Thom, Judge Robert S. Lovett and Ellisha Lee.

Garretson declared that it was against the principles of union labor to have questions in dispute settled by legislation as direct negotiations between the parties has worked out far better.

"This is a demand on the part of the men to be allowed to enjoy some of the ordinary life of an ordinary citizen," he continued. "Some of us believe that the human factor should be a controlling factor as well as a question of dividends. The railroads, we think, rest under obligations to keep the human part of their machines in as good condition as the wood and metal parts."

He attacked the attitude of the railroads on the arbitration suggestion, declaring that they wanted arbitration only when they were dealing with a large organization.

As to the argument that unorganized men were being discriminated against, Garretson said this was not their hope, he said, rested entirely in the hands of their organized fellow workmen.

"They are going to be a factor in this war if it comes," he continued. "It will be an element of deadly danger. This danger underlies the social trust and it is liable to be brought to the surface if the worst comes to the worst."

Garretson declared that no power on earth could force the organized brotherhoods to accept the compulsory conciliatory and investigation legislation.

So far as the "conscription" act permitting the president to operate railroads under military necessity Garretson said that he and his associates opposed the spirit of it but would make no effort to defeat it.

INJUNCTION ISSUES AGAINST THE STATE BUYING BUILDING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 31.—Common Pleas Judge Rathmell today, on application of A. S. Welland, a grocer, issued a temporary injunction restraining the state office building commission from carrying out its contract to purchase the Wyandotte building for $225,000 to house the state boards and commissions.

In the petition former Attorney General T. S. Hogan claims that the building commission is without authority to make a contract incurring a monetary obligation on the part of the state. Hogan claims the act creating the board is illegal because it clothes the building commission with legislative authority.

The injunction, coming as it does on the last day of the month when several commissions were preparing to vacate offices in other buildings so as not to be liable for another month's rent, promises to cause the state to pay additional rent in several instances. The state utilities commission had several wagons loaded with furniture, ready to move from the new First National bank building to the Wyandotte building. Assistant Attorney General Ballard filed a motion to dissolve the injunction. It will be heard Saturday.

3,500 GIRL SLAVES FREED IN NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Since the beginning of the war against white slavery by the police, District Attorney Swann and his assistant, James D. Smith, 3,500 women have been released from bondage. It was learned today that their freedom is a consequence of the flight of more than 500 men of the type of Yusho Rotwin. The backbone of the system of trafficking women has been broken by the revelations of the last few weeks. Practically every woman who has resented the sharing of sin wages has carried her story to the district attorney's office.

At the present time the foundation is laid for the indictment of at least fifty of these parasites upon women.

From the material now in hand it is known that these men have operated in groups, that in one instance as many as thirty men who lived on women's street earnings banded for mutual protection and for purchasing police immunity.

battle front, particularly north of Orzova.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The collapse of the Greek government is predicted in a dispatch from Athens and Saloniki today. Following the receipt of the report that King Constantine had fled from Athens to take refuge with a German escort of 300 Uhlans at Larissa, belief was expressed that the entente military authorities now in Greece may be compelled to assume control of the government machinery at Athens.

That Anglo-French forces may even now be in Athens is indicated by a dispatch from Saloniki reporting that a strong detachment of allied troops had been landed at Piraeus, the port of Athens, where they were attacked by Greek soldiers. It was also stated that a battle had been raging between Anglo-French and Greek soldiers around the country estate of King Constantine at Tatoi.

Chaos reigns supreme in Greece. Some of the Greek soldiers are fighting with the allies and some apparently are fighting against them. A strong revolutionary party is growing up, the movement being fostered by the famine conditions and hardships under which the Greek populace is laboring. The Greek government has lost control of the military branch of the army and powerful factions are struggling to get possession of this power.

Fresh dispatches bearing upon the alarming situation in the Hellenic kingdom are eagerly awaited.

STOCK BROKER, 68, DIES IN BATTLE OF THE SOMME.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Harry Webster, a member of the London Stock Exchange, has just died at the age of 68 years in the battle of the Somme. The day before he was killed he wrote a letter to an old schoolmate of which the following is an extract:

"Forty-one years ago, today, I was playing cricket at the old school and here in the 'sere and yellow leaf,' I am a lieutenant in his majesty's army, having to salute three sons if I meet them out here, colonial and two majors."

"I am first-line transport officer to this battalion, and we have been plumb in the center of the picture during the last ten days and gained no end of kudos, and also a very severe mauling. We have been resting for a week, and refitting, and are at them again tomorrow."

"I am so far extraordinarily well and fit, though when I tell you that for four consecutive days I was either on my feet or in the saddle for 24 hours out of 24, you will see that there is a bit of work attached to it."

"Our boys were simply splendid now, after a rest, they are as keen as well, as a schoolboy to play cricket."

LAKE SEAMEN TO STRIKE NEXT WEEK

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 31.—A railroad strike will probably be followed by a walkout of 15,000 lake seamen, according to the prediction of Secretary Martin, of the Cleveland branch of the Lake Seamen's Union today.

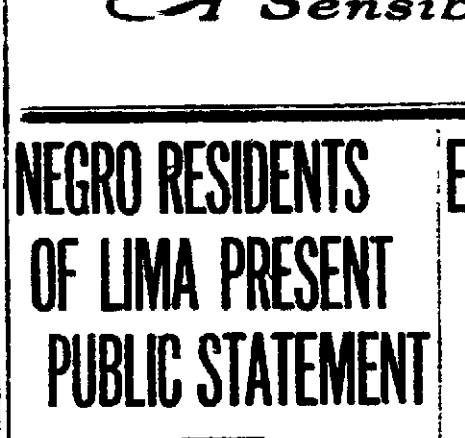

Negotiations with the lake carriers were broken off several weeks ago when employees refused to make concessions regarding the so-called "blacklist" to which seamen object. The union has voted for a strike and now the matter rests in the hands of Victor Olander, head of the organization, said Martin. "He is in Chicago waiting a favorable time to strike the blow by calling a general walkout and tying up the entire traffic of the Great Lakes. While I have no direct information I believe it possible that our union will step out immediately if there is a railroad strike."

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The "Jovie, Jovie, footsie wootsie letters" written by Thomas Blacomb to Mrs. Christina Grabow were worth $5,000. A jury has awarded damages for that sum to Grabow who sued for alienation of affections.

Negro residents of Lima issued the following statement last night:

Whereas, an act of violence has been committed in our community by a stranger, who happened to be a member of our race, we desire to submit the following expressions for publication:

Lima being a large city and employing numbers of men and enjoying marked prosperity at this time, has brought and is bringing numbers of people, both white and colored to her.

We colored people have longed for the day when we might be able to meet strange negroes and place them in proper environments. Our churches and best citizens always extend welcome hands to strangers.

But, sorry to say, in our race, as in other races, there are some people without character, principle, or good sense, and it is that class that ramble and rove, and cause trouble wherever they go.

If we negroes of Lima could pass on strangers before being admitted to our city or even had power to eliminate undesirables, we know that no dastardly crimes would ever be laid at our doors.

The above statements being true, therefore or consequently, undesirable sometimes get in our midst and we see the results thereof.

Just at this time we, as residents of Lima, do not want to assume the burdens of strangers. Also at this time we wish to emphatically express ourselves in that we abhor, despise, and regret that such inhuman crimes have been committed in our midst. We ask the intelligent and thinking people of Lima to see Lima's permanent negro residents in the proper and just light.

Lima has always been kind to us and fair and impartial in her courts. We do not ask any leniency and especially in this case, but we do ask the fair-minded and just law enforcement that has always been exercised in Allen county.

Further, we do not doubt the efficiency of Allen county's judicial department, but we always stand ready to aid them in the apprehension and bringing to justice perpetrators of any acts of violence and especially such dastardly, heinous acts as the recent one.

NEW FEATURES ARE MANY WITH THE BIG BUFFALO BILL SHOW

Many novel features are promised for the Buffalo Bill-101 Ranch Wild West show, which Lima is to see for two performances, Thursday, September 14.

Push-back, with contestants afoot and on horseback, is strongly featured this year, a fact which is said to be justified by the rough-and-tumble character of this exciting contest. The Indians, who are led by the noted Chief Flying Hawk, are, it is announced, more picturesquely and effectively employed than in other years. All the Indian braves are utilized in the attack on the pioneers' camp; they give a genuine buffalo hunt, and they illustrate their native ghost, white-dog, green-corn and other aboriginal dances. In the stage-coach holdup, as well as in the reproduction of the attack on Columbus, N. M., there are Mexican rangers and soldiers, both Villalistas and Carranzistas, and they give an interesting color to the lively picture. A troop of Cossacks, with their small ponies and high saddles, interestingly contrast the method of riding in vogue in the Russian Caucasus and the western plains. The announcement is made that Col. William F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill) will be in the saddle at both performances and will actively participate in the great military spectacle, "Preparedness," which is this season's biggest feature, as well as in the preliminary free street parade which takes place at 10:30 on the morning of show day.

A WOMAN'S KINDLY ACT.
Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill., writes "I was stricken with lumbago, unable to turn in bed. A neighbor brought Foley Kidney Pills. She had been similarly afflicted and they cured her. I was cured by three bottles." If the kidneys do not function, lumbago, rheumatism, aches, pains, are apt to result. H. F. Vorkamp, tuthast

THE FAUROT PICTURES.
Madame Olga Petrova, famous emotional star of stage and screen, and prime favorite with Lima picture-goers, is at the Faurot today in her new Metro wonderplay, "The Eternal Question." The versatility of this accomplished actress is shown by her portrayal of a poor immigrant girl who is taken of the streets of New York and adorned with fine clothes and jewels in an attempt by a noted designer of female apparel to demonstrate that he can make a lady of any one by simply dressing her in fashionable garb. The play gives Mme. Petrova a wonderful opportunity for the effective acting for which she is noted, and the Metro company has given it a wealth of thrilling situations and some superb photograph and settings. The cast includes Arthur Hoops, Mahlon Hamilton, Warren Oland, Edward Martindell, Henry Leese, Evelyn Demo and others of the Metro forces. "The Eternal Question" is accompanied by a capital comedy, "Preparedness," with the ever delightful Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, and new Paramount Pictographs, the enjoyable "magazine on the screen."

ORPHEUM THEATER.
The attraction at the Orpheum theater, Saturday, September 2, matinee and night, will be Charles Sumner's vifile drama, "The Natural Law," which enjoyed a long run at the Republic theater, New York, last spring.

Mr. Sumner tells an interesting story in a dramatic way. His heroine is Ruth Stanley, a young artist, who has been commissioned to paint a life-size picture of Jack Bowling, champion runner of the American team which is being sent to Europe to take part in the Olympic games.

Ruth is engaged to be married to a physician who has been called west and who is absent during the time that she is at work on the portrait. When he returns he finds that Ruth has lost her head and heart over young Bowling. To physician pleads with his fiancée not to allow her senses to dominate her soul, but his appeal is of no avail, and the irresistible impulse of the natural law sweeps the two young people over the precipice of convention.

In the second act the girl comes to the physician for advice and assistance. He sends for young Bowling, and a wedding is arranged, the ceremony to be solemnized a few minutes before Bowling's departure for the Olympic games. But when Ruth learns that Bowling is giving her his name merely through a sense of duty and not for love, she rebels at the idea, and refuses to become his wife, maintaining that she has no sinned against the "natural law" and that she will not debase herself merely to conform to the conventions of society.

In the third act there is a bitter struggle between the physician and the athlete as to which shall win Ruth's love and loyalty. The suspense is maintained to the end, and the solution of all the problem is both effective and convincing.

ELEY AND THE MOB

Five thousand hooting, jeering, yelling men, with hundreds of women eagerly craning the neck for a glimpse of something violent to assuage the curiosity, disgraced Lima last night.

Five thousand men or more, qualified voters who talked savorously about being taxpayers when calling the jail building their own, stormed the residence of the sheriff, pilfered the living quarters, drove women and children from the house under police protection, intent on forcing a missing sheriff to reveal the place where he had concealed an accused negro. And then, when the officer had returned from a mission which saved Lima from the disgrace of a lynching, five thousand hoodlums, excited beyond reason and actuated by the hue-and-cry spirit which echoes the urging of any tough with a loud voice, invaded a club, destroyed private property and forced Sherman E. Eley to a telephone pole with a rope knotted around his neck.

A servant of the law threatened with lynching for obeying his sworn duty!

A crowd of irresponsibles, lacking a leader to be dangerous and cowardly enough to be scattered by ten strong men, had ten appeared, filled with yelling agitators, prevented from further disgracing our city only by the strategy of two men from committing a murder!

A mob is always cowardly. Men of courage are more liable to be men of judgment, and wise men never join mobs such as surged around the court house last night. That was the mob of artificial courage, relying on numbers and deserving of the hose instead of gunfire. A fire hose attached at Elizabeth street would have scattered the mob in sixty seconds.

Contrast with this the character of Sherman Eley, threatened with death, fisted by hundreds, his clothes torn, his face bleeding, a noose around his neck, staunchly refusing to reveal the secret sought by the mob, sticking to his trust and yielding only on the advice of his official attorney, Prosecutor Ortha O. Barr. The mob was a pack of sheep, following the drunken sot with the loud voice and the illiterate speech. Eley is a man, every inch.

There has been for months a movement among the respectable element in Lima to defeat Sherman E. Eley for his second term—for earning his salary. He has been victimized—for doing his duty. Law-breakers of every kind, from the petty gambler who runs a dice game and the "fixed" fight promoter on up to the higher forms of violation, are against him. Cheap sports of the tin horn variety, professional followers of things illegal and never known to do a day's work in a legitimate line, are talking against him for political purposes. And the mob that threatened his life last night promised to knife him in November.

We predict that Eley will be recognized for doing his duty. Such a demonstration as was witnessed last night is just what was needed to arouse the better elements in Lima. The law violators of various classes, the men who hold the law cheaply and sneer at any regard for authority, are out to beat the big man who kept his mouth shut in the face of apparently certain death. But there are a majority of respectable citizens left, and they will be found arrayed behind this big farmer, and there can be little doubt that vindication is to come to the sheriff.

Prosecutor Barr will be doing the city a service if he can send the ringleaders to the penitentiary for stiff terms. Someone ought to be punished for the crime of manhandling an officer and threatening to lynch him, and those men who were most active should get the limit. This is high time to make an example of the loud-mouthed tough who raves about "justice," inciting to riot when he is making himself worse than the criminal sought. As far as the color of the accused is concerned, the law recognizes none of that, and in America a man is innocent until proved guilty.

THEN AND NOW

When during the Taft administration it was proposed in the United States senate to intervene in Mexico, Mr. Root denounced the idea, saying: "Granting that injuries have been done to American citizens that ought to be redressed; that wounds have been inflicted, that lives have been taken. . . . It does not follow, sir, that we should begin the process of securing redress for those injuries by a threat of force on the part of a great and powerful nation against a smaller and weaker nation. That, sir, is to revise the policy of the United States and take a step backward in the pathway of civilization."

When in February, 1913, Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson at Mexico City appealed to the Taft government at Washington to address the Mexican government of Madero in a "firm, drastic and perhaps menacing" style for the protection of American interests, Secretary of State Knox refused on the ground that such an attitude might possibly precipitate what the United States was trying to avoid, namely, intervention. At that time, according to Ambassador Wilson, between 75 and 80 Americans had already been murdered.

At Detroit, too, and in his subsequent utterances, Mr. Hughes has successfully evaded all reference to the domestic policies and achievements of a Democratic president and a Democratic congress.

Wait until you can read the two speeches of acceptance side by side and you'll get an even better measure of the fitness of the rival candidates.

GOOD EVENING: How would you like to be sheriff?

Dreams That Do Not Come True

The Old Maid and the Married Woman Have Radically Different Viewpoints.

By DOROTHY DILL

AS IT SEEMS TO BE.

The old maid speaks:

H. HOW I envy married women. What a wonderful thing it must be to have the love and protection of a husband, to have some strong arm to stand between you and the world,

some buffer between you and the hardships of existence.

"How sweet it must be to have a husband to love and cherish you, to feel that you are the one woman in the world to him, and that as the years

go by his affection grows tenderer

and more chivalrous, and to know that in his eyes, at least, you will ever grow old and homely, but always be the fair young bride he married."

"It must be wonderful to watch

an evening for the coming of the step of the master of the house, and to think of the long evenings of perfect companionship that you will spend with the man who is literally

your other half, talking over together

all the little happenings of the day,

secure in a perfect companionship

and understanding."

"No wonder the organ peals out

"The Voice That Breathes O'er Eden"

at weddings. Marriage is Paradise regained for a woman."

"Of course, I'm not so badly off

as things go for old maids. I have an ample income for all my needs,

and plenty of interests to keep me

alert and alive, and hosts of good friends, and affectionate relatives,

but I am alone. I have no man to stand between me and the world. I must fend for myself and look out for my own interests."

"I've got no husband to tell me

I'm still young and beautiful when

I'm fat and forty; no footstep to listen for of an evening; no loving lips

to praise all that I do or leave undone."

"That's why I envy every married woman who breaks up a bridge game or rushes home from a tea or from matinee to see about dinner for her husband. The married life is the only life for woman."

AS IT REALLY IS.

The married woman speaks:

WONDER what makes any woman fool enough to get married!

"It's slavery. That's what it is.

Nothing but slavery, that an idiot

of a young girl gives herself into without knowing what she's doing.

I'll wager that if marriage licenses

had return coupons attached to them

that there isn't one bride in a hundred that would not be back in her girlhood inside of three months."

"They talk about a husband protecting his wife. Huh! There's one person he doesn't protect you from and that's himself. So far as I can see, the chief thing a man gets married for is to get somebody that he can vent all of his ill temper and grouchiness on."

"I know my husband talks to me

in a way that he would never dream of speaking to any other human being on earth, and especially as he'd never speak to anything else that wouldn't speak to him. He's so business with and chivalrous to women in society, but one of the unwritten laws of matrimony is that you don't have to show any good mon-

ners toward a mere wife."

"Companionship—that's what every girl really marries for. Not one aband in a hundred ever holds a real conversation with his wife. He goes to the club of an evening, or else drowns over the paper and grunts when he is spoken to. If you'd substitute a store dummy for the average husband his wife would never find out the difference."

"Perhaps there are husbands that pay their wives compliments, and still take an interest in holding their hand after the first year of matrimony."

"Marriage is no picnic for a woman. How I envy the old maids

who have their own pocketbooks,

and their own latch keys, and nobody who has a legal right to tell them of their faults and criticize their appearance."

and night, sunlight, cleanliness of person and surroundings, rest in bed when necessary and sufficient wholesome food.

Children, whether they are tubercular, anemic or well, thrive best and make more rapid progress in their work in open-air schools than they do when obliged to study day after day in closed and ill-ventilated schoolrooms.

PUERTO DE LUNA.

Puerto de Luna is one of the anachronisms that still exist under the American flag today. It is hard to believe that the same banner floats over Puerto de Luna and Broadway.

The little village is a bit of the last century. It dates back to 1850, at least, and most of its inhabitants date back as far as you please. Puerto de Luna is a Mexican hamlet, as you may have guessed from its name, but it is not like any of the Mexican towns that are being described so liberally at the moment. It belongs to a class and an order of its own; to the patriarchal regime that obtained in the American southwest before it was American in anything but name.

It sprawls over the sunlit sandhills with no pretence at streets. Little square blocks of adobe houses, their doors and window-frames painted a pale disturbing blue and scattered about like a child's blocks on a nursery floor. Each house boasts its little conical mud oven, neatly whitewashed, sometimes in front of it, sometimes behind, according as the lady of the house prefers to bake in public or in private. In every window are carefully tended geraniums blooming in tomato cans, and vivid hollyhocks battle with the weeds on the mud roofs.

Here and there an indolent citizen shuffles through the dust that powders him with its gray coating from his clumsy shoes to his shapeless dropping felt hat. A red bandanna trailing from the pocket of his overalls lends the touch of color that redeems him from the commonplace; he wears it in obedience to the vague promptings of an artistic instinct, though if you asked him he would probably account of it on grounds purely utilitarian.

In the little one-room store the

NEW AMBITION FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE.

The great nerve tonic—the famous 5 grain toniline tablets—that will put vigor, vim and vitality into nervous, tired out, all in, despondent people in a few days.

Anyone can buy a box, they are inexpensive, and Butler's Drug Stores and Thompson's Drug Store are authorized by the maker to refund the purchase price if anyone is dissatisfied in accordance with guarantee in each large box.

Thousands praise them for general debility, nervous prostration, mental depression and unstrung nerves caused by over-indulgence in alcohol, tobacco or overwork of any kind.

As a brain food or for any affliction of the nervous system toniline is unsurpassed, while for hysteria, trembling and neurasthenia they are simply splendid. Mail orders filled for out of town customers.

WANTED—YOUNG MEN

"What are the young men of the country thinking about?" said a prominent business man the other day. "Here I have been trying to get a young man stenographer for a week and I can't find him. I want a young man for this particular place. It is one of the best positions in our establishment for learning all the details of our business and that fact makes it valuable as a training school. Several men have been promoted from that position to higher positions in our office. You would think it would be the kind of a position a young man would jump at, but because I must have a stenographer for that position, I can't get one."

Yes, it certainly is strange. This school has had scores of such positions that it has been unable to fill. Some of the best opportunities in the business world today are in stenographic positions. Here a young man takes dictation of his superior and learns the work of that superior, thus placing himself in direct line of promotion. Our school has had wonderful success in training stenographers. Ninety per cent of the skilled stenographers of the city are graduates of our school and many of our prominent business men are graduates of Lima Business College.

Why not talk the matter over with us and arrange for a course that will lead to business success? Fall term begins September 5th. Day and evening sessions.

local dignitaries congregate—the storekeeper whom everybody owes, the alcalde, the richest sheep-owner. They discuss gravely the problems of the nations, and the storekeeper breaks off to shell a shy little brown infant a penny's worth of unsanitary candy. The soothing, soporific sunlight beats down industriously. There is no railway, no noon whistles, no time-schedule, no hurry. Puerto de Luna is an oasis of peace in a restless century.

IRISH LABOR CAUSES TROUBLE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—In parts of Lincolnshire, where it has been customary to employ Irish harvest men, the local laborers this fall refuse to work with the imported men and farmers are declining to employ them. The English laborers are angry because while young Britishmen are in Ireland as soldiers receiving 25s a day, the Irish laborers taking their places here at $1.37 and $1.75 a day. Local shopkeepers and innkeepers decline to accommodate the Irishmen or have anything to do with them.

LIMA LUCKY ON GAS

A Big Supply This Winter!

After going over the entire field, following the bringing in this summer of 25 new wells, Lima and this territory will have a plentiful supply of Natural Gas for the entire winter. Not until assured of this fact would the Lima Natural Gas company make the following announcement:

Note This Special Offer!

For many years past, it has been the custom of this company, each Fall, to offer its present and prospective patrons some special concession, in the cost of connecting premises or equipping appliances, which would permit them to arrange to enjoy the luxury of natural gas, at a substantial saving. The popular acceptance of our previous offers is evidenced in the hundreds of happy homes where this matchless fuel has supplanted coal and is now used with cleanliness, comfort and satisfaction.

This year it is our pleasure to announce that beginning September 1st, and ending October 1st, 1916, we offer for your acceptance the following proposal, to-wit:

For Domestic Heating and Cooking

Gas burners will be installed in coal-fired hot air furnaces, steam and hot water boilers, coal heating stoves, coal cooking stoves and grates, AT THE COST OF MATERIAL WITH NO CHARGE FOR LABOR.

Easy Terms If Desired

All installations will be made in the order of their receipt, first come first served; and as our fitters will naturally be very busy, it therefore behooves you to place your order WITHOUT DELAY, as October 1st is the final date.

THE BEAUTY OF DRESS

NOW THAT all of us are thinking so much about clothes for fall blings such thoughts. I am going to publish here an article by Anna Anna M.
Coolidge taken from an address she made not long ago to high school girls on the beauty and appropriateness of dress. It can well be adapted to ourselves, or to the college girl who is in the throes of her fall and winter wardrobe. It is very worth reading and applying.

"In our costumes we should have a higher ideal than mere fashion.
While we are willing to think for ourselves and to express our ideas freely on most subjects, in the matter of clothes we too often allow some one else to do our thinking for us, following the fashions blindly for fear that we will not look quite like everybody else.

"To be merely fashionable is to be of the thousands; to wear artistic and individual costumes is to be well dressed. It is not for the benefit of womanhood that the fashions are made to change so frequently, but to enrich manufacturer, modiste, and fashion-book maker. Fashion is also governed by traditions which determine many styles, as well as the competition of leaders of fashion.
Each generation is in the grip of social custom; we submit unconsciously to the survival of style. It is not a matter to be treated lightly; so much of comfort and good looks depend on the garments we wear
that they deserve intelligent thought.

"Instead of mere novelty, the attractions offered by dressmakers should be graceful, beautiful, and becoming garments. Change we want, but let us accept only such change as is for the better, in the direction of either comfort or beauty, or both.

"A discussion of costume would be incomplete without a word on simplicity, for ninety-nine out of every hundred costumes are spoiled by a lack of it. Simplicity is not plainness nor stupidity, but the intelligent omission of the superfluous. Being well dressed often means knowing what to leave off. Every bit of trimming, every line, every button or bow or feather either adds to the beauty of the costume or detracts from it. Because one band or bow is good, it does not necessarily follow that ten are better. Imbecility of ornament, trimming without reason, spoils a great number of costumes, but every bit of trimming that improves a costume fills a place that would be empty without it. It often seems as if women dress and purchase their costumes without looking in the mirror. Stout women, who sometimes wear gay colors, material with big figures, and large picture hats, should know enough to avoid anything but the most simple lines, figures, and inconspicuous colors. No woman is well dressed in a costume which is exaggerated, and especially when it veges on lack of refinement."

POTATO HILL PHILOSOPHY.

(Ed Howe's Monthly.)

In a love affair, which side practices most deception? It varies, but 55 is probably the general average.

Full-size compliments are often paid women, but men rarely hear them. A compliment for a man usually has a sting with it.

This much may be said about the enthusiasm of people: They praise friends as lavishly as they abuse enemies.

Favors of Fashion

By CLARICE.

Despite discouraging rumors, furs
are just as plentiful as they ever were, although there is a little advance in their price. But that, as you undoubtedly know, may be true of anything now. And now to really be in fashion one absolutely must have furs, they are an essential part of the winter costume, even if they were worn when the mercury hovered around the 100 mark.

The newest fur this year, and quite the rage in Paris, is Belgium hare.
This fur is rather coarse textured,
of a soft gray color flecked with white,
but furnishes a very effective trimming. Fur is favored, too, for trimming; coats are seemingly smothered
in it, chiffon blouses have touches of it, dresses and hats also come in for their share.

There is much jauntiness and dash to the new seal coats, which perhaps on account of the skating craze,
are much shorter, the smart fur coat
for the young girl reaching just below the hips. There is a decided flare and ripple to these coats, and some of them sport natty pockets of a roominess that delights our modern girl's heart. The "long" fur coat wings four or five inches above the skirt hem.

Fox will be the fur of furs this winter, for the short neck piece and the muff. This fur fortunately has a wide range of prices, the black and natural fox being the cheapest. Genuine white fox, however, is a rare luxury. Dyed fur is a novelty, for one may have one's furs dyed to match one's tailored suit, and this winter one may see many symphonies in gray, taupe, castor and other colors. But white, blue, gray or red—fur will be for this winter, and that cannot be denied.

NEW MEXICAN COTTON

RAISED 3,000 YEARS AGO.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 31.—Three thousand years ago cotton was raised in northern New Mexico and woven into cloth by prehistoric Aztecs. Also they made rope and twine, perhaps even thread, of cotton and of the yuca plant, known to an enlightened modern civilization as soapweed, or Spanish bayonet, and chiefly used by small boys for the manufacture of toy daggers.

The cotton cloth has been discovered in explorations directed by Earl H. Morris of the University of Colorado, acting for the American Museum of Natural History, New York.
Mr. Morris began work on July 30 on a four years' excavation of the famous Aztec ruins on the ranch of H. D. Abrams, within an hour's walk of Aztec, N. M.

The discovery of the cloth, which has been found beyond doubt to be cotton, is amazing to scientists.

The cotton closely resembles the common upland cotton grown in the southern states today. Already the ranchmen in the San Juan basin are considering the feasibility of putting in cotton plants there.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD Y

In Which the Butterfly Shows That She is No Longer a Butterfly at All.

As the train slowed down at Fairport, Ethel Gordon stepped off and giving the check for her suitcase to the driver of the dingy bus hurried toward her home.
"I do wish Ralph's mother was not there. I should so

enjoy seeing Ralph

all alone and telling him what I have in my heart

to say," she thought as she

climbed the hill

leading to the house. Nell Morton saw her approaching, but

wisely kept in the background. Ethel

tried the door and
with a radiant

face took her latchkey from her handbag and let herself in.

"I hope she has come back a woman," thought Nell, dropping the curtain and returning to her work.

"I am alone! to work out this thing to suit myself." Ethel hugged herself with delight. "I'll look and see what there is in the house to eat. It is 10 o'clock," she added, glancing at the timepiece on the mantle as she hurried to the pantry.

She found the place well stocked

with provisions and in perfect order.

Her face flushed as she remembered

what confusion her mother-in-law must have found when she came.

"Never mind, I'll prove that I can do things right now." There was decision in the very way the mouth closed. She called up the butcher and ordered meat for dinner and the grocer for milk and vegetables. Then she took off the traveling suit—the very suit she had run in debt for—

and slipped on a neat house-dress.

"When my suitcase comes I'll put on the big apron I got at Riverdale,"

she reflected.

Everything was going nicely in the kitchen at a quarter of twelve.

"What if he should go straight to the hotel, and not come home at all," she thought in sudden panic.

The fact that the furnace is going

shows that he spends his nights here, but he might not come." She gave over the first glimpse of his approach. "I believe I'll call him up by phone," she decided suddenly. "I hate to have him know before he gets here, but it would be so unhear-able not to have him come that I cannot run the risk." She hurried to the telephone and asked to speak with Mr. Gordon. When Ralph came to the phone and she heard his voice she trembled with excitement.

"Is that you, Ralph?" she asked.

"Come home to dinner, dear. I am back home." As soon as she heard his delighted "Ethel" she hung up the receiver and hurried to the kitchen to put the finishing touches to the dinner, keeping an eye fixed on the path by which her husband would come.

"I'll not take off my apron when I go to meet him, for it will be a sign of the change in me, a change that he will welcome, poor boy."

She was at the door to meet him as he bounded up the steps, and he caught the radiant little creature in his arms, apron and all. He had never known a more blissful moment in his life than came over him when he felt the utter surrender of the little form in his arms. After a few minutes of eloquent silence
she took his face between her hands
and said as she kissed him:

"I must go and finish my dinner.
Cook's cannot long be spared from the kitchen or their dinners come to grief." She threw a kiss to him from the door before she vanished

from his sight. Ralph prepared for dinner with a heart beating high with hope.

"Could such fortune come to a man as to have a wife as beautiful as she and at the same time one who can keep house and make a man comfortable?"

The dinner was beautifully cooked, but Ralph hardly knew what he was eating so absorbed was he in watching the little wife. She removed the plates and crumbed the cloth with grace. But when she came near his chair he interrupted

all operations by drawing her face down to be kissed. And her joy in his happiness—well, it was perfect.

Plans Completed For Labor Day Racing Day Event

Three more entries were added to the large field of riders in the motorcycle races at Lima Driving park on Labor Day, yesterday, when the secretary of the Lima Motorcycle club received signed contracts from Ray Yohey, Harold Rowe and Rolfe Blume. Officials of the club were gratified to receive the three contracts, all to compete in the events on the program, as there is little doubt but that many riders that will participate in the races at Columbus, Sunday, September 3, will be post entries in the local affair. Arrangements are being made by officials of the local meet to take care of the late entries. If the field in any of the events should be too large as a result of the late entries, it is likely that the program will be lengthened, giving motorcycle fans an extra event. The advance sale on tickets to the classic indicates that one of the largest crowds ever assembled at the local track will witness the six events on the program. Arrangements are being made by the officials of the motorcycle club to accommodate an extra large crowd.

innings yesterday Cincinnati and New York battled with honor, even but in the twelfth four consecutive hits by the visitors gave them the edge and they captured the final game of the series, 6 to 3. The wildness of both Benton and Perritt caused them to be relieved early in the struggle while Schneider weakened in the eighth and he, too, was supplanted. McCarty was ordered out of the game in the fifth inning for disputing a decision.

Strike To Lose Geld For Men

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 31.—It seemed fairly certain today that the promoters of the Welsh-White championship fight here on Labor day will lose money. How much money they will be out depends upon whether the railroad strike is called, but all hope of breaking even went aglimmering today. Many fans who would have come from distant points have passed up the show because they could not be sure they were going to get home after it was over. The cost of staging the mill is figured in round numbers at $35,000. Approximately $15,000 already is in the till and the promoters figure that amount will be doubled by auto parties and local enthusiasts which will leave a $5,000 shortage. Both fighters will begin to ease off in their work tomorrow. White is within a pound and a half of the required 135 and Welsh already is below the mark. Even money and 4 to 5 on the champion were the prevailing odds today with little money being wagered. Both men are unusually confident, the champion so much so that he confided to friends that he is going to bet $10,000 on himself.

Strike Effect

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The railway strike, while it will prove extremely disconcerting will not seriously affect the American league base ball schedule, President Ban Johnson said today. Water routes, electric lines and automobiles will be used to carry the teams from city to city. The only result, it was stated, would be to work minor hardships on the players and probably cause the postponement of a few games.

Star Ball Player Is Obstinate

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 31.—Louis Guisto, star first sacker of the Portland club, today announced that he would rather stay in the minors than go to the Indians under the salary terms offered. The Indians offered Guisto $2,150 per season. He has demanded $1,000 bonus and a contract calling for $3,000 per annum. "If I don't get it I don't report," Guisto said today.

Another Match

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Backers of Ever Hammer, the local Swedish lightweight today posted a certified check for $10,000 with Harry C. Moir, a local hotel man, for a battle between Hammer and the winner of the White-Welsh go.

SHORT SPORT

Big league magnates busied themselves today in "doping" trolley, auto and boat schedules for their clubs, in case the railroad strike comes Monday.

Both league presidents declare that a strike would not tie up base ball, that the schedules would be maintained "at any cost."

The western clubs in both circuits will be playing against each other next week. It is the same with eastern clubs. Therefore, the jumps will not be big ones and, in emergency, be covered by trolley or auto.

FIRE RISKS IN OLD RAGS. The danger of fire from oil soaked rags such as many housekeepers keep on hand for wiping up varnished floors was demonstrated at a fire risk exhibition given in a New York window recently. A quantity of oil soaked rags were placed in the window with a placard stating that they were liable to take fire at any time from instantaneous combustion due to the atmosphere upon the rags. A number of small blazes were started by the rags in this window. In one instance combustion took place within seven hours after the rags were placed in position.

PAST
Will Prove the Advisability
OF AVOIDING ALL MOVEMENTS TOWARD CITY OWNERSHIP.

Examine the record of that form of mismanagement and see where it has failed in other cities.

A few random shots at the practical side of this theoretical cure-all will illustrate the wisdom of steering clear of municipal ownership.

During the campaign in Portland, Oregon, in 1914, when municipal ownership was an issue, the Oregonian carried the following letter to the paper from a former Portland resident then living in Edmonton, Alberta, where everything is owned and managed by the city:

"These statements are from a city where municipal ownership is carried to the utmost limits, where one of the candidates for mayor at the last election, as his principal plea for re-election, declared he had given word to the citizens at public expense of several hundred thousand dollars, the city where the lake in the winter on which some people skate, is owned by the city sweeper, scraped by the city scraper, and sprinkled by the city sprinkler, where the city furnishes a band of music, where electric lights cost the householder 8c per k. w. (first 1 to 100), telephones $30 annually, power 3 1/2c. Here it takes three men to move your telephone from one side of your office to the other; the electric light department is open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; it takes three or four days to get a 'final' statement on your light meter. It's a pity a few people from Portland could not live here a week or so; just to learn how a few things work in practice."

With that letter was a clipping from the Edmonton Journal: "Of the four utilities—street railway, telephones, water works and power plant—a total deficit of $16,895 is recorded for the month of May (1914)."

If municipal ownership in Edmonton, Alberta, the coming capital of Western Canada, failed to work in four cases, what reason is there to believe that it would work in Lima with one utility?

LABOR FEDERATION LEADER ENDORSES PRESIDENTS RECORD

Issues a Statement in Reply
to Former Bull Moose Robbins

The hope of the G. O. P. that Raymond Robbins, chairman of the progressive national convention, would be able to swing the labor vote of Chicago to Mr. Hughes is shattered by the public statement issued by John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Fitzpatrick is one of the big national figures in the labor movement and in the American Federation of Labor. He is and has been for years a close friend of Raymond Robbins, but their personal association has not carried Fitzpatrick into the Hughes camp with the former progressive leader.

Mr. Fitzpatrick has sent to Democratic national headquarters a statement for publication, declaring that the re-election of President Wilson "means the realization of the hopes for the future of the common people and is the only hope for the establishment and perpetuation of a nation of free men and women."

Although Fitzpatrick does not enter into any argument with his friends, he heads his statement, "A Reply to Raymond Robbins."

The statement of the Chicago labor president follows:

"Chicago, Aug. 20, 1916.

"For years organized labor contended for certain fundamental and remedial governmental action to protect, conserve and advance the rights, interest and welfare of the working people. Under previous democratic or republican administrations controlling big business, the rights of the workers were flouted and almost totally ignored. Under the present administration three of the most important questions advocated by the organized labor movement have been enacted into law:

"1st. The Clayton act, amending the Sherman anti-trust law, which declares that 'Labor is not a commodity, nor an article of commerce.' This amendment compels the federal judges to regard the workers as human beings and not as property or a commodity at the behest of big business, whom they were prone to serve.

"2nd. The seamen's bill, which ended the last vestige of human slavery which was tolerated by the United States.

"Human beings employed in marine and seafaring are no longer regarded as property or used as slaves.

"The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, proclaiming that 'Liberty enlightens the world,' is only the declaration of the fact. The enactment of the seamen's law is the consummation of the declaration. And now we have human liberty established in the shipping industry.

"3rd. The child labor bill, which is the first plank in the preparedness program of the Chicago Federation of Labor and which has been urged upon our lawmakers all these years without success. This fundamental demand of the people is now a law and completes the triad of measures which inspires hope and confidence in the minds and in the hearts of the people and gives us the courage to still believe that this form of government, a republic, can endure upon the face of the earth."

The administration that successfully handled the most vital affairs of this republic while a great crisis has confronted the European nations, and has successfully proceeded in reconstructing its own foundation, so that this will be a republic in reality, as shown by the enactment of these three great measures, must and surely is deeply imbedded in the hearts of all loyal and liberty loving citizens. And just as sure as the Creator entrusted the affairs of this republic in the hands of a man endowed with the necessary wisdom, courage, foresight and understanding ing of the needs of the hour, as is President Wilson, just so sure may we be that it is intended that his re-election means the realization of the hopes for the future of the common people and is the only hope for the establishment and perpetuation of a nation of free men and women.

"JOHN FITZPATRICK."

The New Eight Cylinder Cadillac Is Here Type 55

THERE is one thought in connection with the coming of this new Cadillac which we would like you to grasp at once. With the advent of this car, the Cadillac "Eight" enters upon its third successive season, with no radical change in the basic principles of its design.

This is perhaps the first time such a thing has happened in motor car development, and you will quickly see its significance as applied to the Cadillac.

Quite properly, we believe, the World has always looked to the Cadillac Company for advanced ideas, improved practice and progressive principles.

The fact, therefore, that the Cadillac car has proven itself beyond the need of radical change is, in itself, too impressive and too illuminating to call for comment.

It does not by any manner of means imply that the Cadillac process of refinement had come to a conclusion. In a multitude of ways, this is a better, finer Cadillac than any which has preceded it—the subject of unremitting research and scientific betterment in scores of details.

What the absence of radical change really means, is that the underlying principles of Cadillac V-type eight-cylinder construction have been proven fundamentally sound by the performance of 31,000 cars.

It means that the Cadillac Company, with resources at its command probably superior to those possessed by any other motor car plant in the world, has arrived at the deliberate judgment that the kind of a motor car which it is now building, represents a higher degree of efficiency than any other in existence.

It means that this is the joint judgment of every expert mind associated with this Company. It expresses the judgment of 31,000 owners who cannot conceive of any respect in which Cadillac principles could be changed to their advantage.

The new Cadillac conforms to the finest Cadillac traditions, down to the least and last of details—and it advances them still more closely toward perfection.

It is a beautiful car to look upon.

The superior riding qualities, with which you are familiar, are enhanced and intensified.

The driving ease of last year and the year before, accentuated by the longer wheelbase of the new car, is more marked than ever.

It is doubtful if motoring can give rise to a situation which can successfully challenge Cadillac powers.

The old feeling that it is folly to seek further—the old sense of security that the Cadillac represents the uttermost in a motor car—will come over you more strongly than ever.

We are serenely confident of the exhilaration and enthusiasm which you will experience on the occasion of your first ride in this unusual car.

Are You Past 30 Years? Take Hot Water and "Anuric."

People are realizing more and more every day that the kidneys, just as do the bowels, need to be flushed occasionally. The kidneys are an eliminative organ and are constantly working, separating the poisons from the blood. Under this continual and perpetual action they are apt to congest and then trouble starts. Uric acid backs up into the system, causing rheumatism, neuralgia, dropsy and many other serious disturbances. Doctor Pierce of Buffalo, New York, advocates that every one should drink plenty of pure water between meals. Every day should exercise in the outdoor air sufficiently to sweat profusely, and from time to time stimulate the kidney action by means of "Anuric."

This preparation has been thoroughly tried out at his Sanitarium, in the same way as his "Fruit and Nut" or "Women and

"Golden Medical Discovery," the standard herbal system tonic, (both of which now come in tablet form for conveyance of carrying and taking). "Anuric" is now being introduced here, and many local people are daily testifying to its perfectness.

When you have backache, dizzy spells or r'umourism, heed nature's warning. It means that you are a victim to uric acid poisoning. Then ask your druggist for "Anuric" and you will very soon become one of hundreds who daily give their thankful endorsement to this powerful enemy to uric acid.

If you have that tired, worn-out feeling, backache, rheumatism, neuralgia, or if your sleep is disturbed by too frequent urination, get Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets at drug stores, full treatment $1.00, or send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.
